MILITARY RULE REMOVED FROM ISLE OF KOREA

(Correspondence Associated Press)

TOKIO, Japan, June 19.—That all aspects of military rule should be completely banished from Korea is the opinion of representative Japanese. Thus only, they say, can Japan hope to re-establish peace and order among the Korean people.

It is generally admitted here that the disaffection is not removed, but merely quiescent, ready to burst forth anew once the existing military pressure is removed.

Institution of a civilian government and removal of the present gendarme police system are believed here to be necessary. The gendarmes are held responsible for cases of brutality and mistreatment, the soldiers being only responsible, it is declared, for the killing of Koreans in the Christian church at Cheam-ni. In this case, the Herald of Asia, a Japanese policeman had been murdered, and his body mutilated. The gendarmes told the arriving soldiers an exaggerated story, says the newspaper, and the young troops joined the gendarmes in a massacre of the people.

Once the gendarmes method of policing the peninsula is removed, and the people given more local autonomy, such as the villages of Japan enjoy, the newspaper thinks the Koreans may see that their best interests lie in the peaceful acceptance of things as they are.

Responsible organs of opinion here favor making Korea an integral part of the Japanese empire politically, as it already is territorially. Korea, they conceive, might be made a province of Japan, with a civil governor and proper representation in the Japanese Diet. But before this is possible, the newspapers think, the Koreans must pass through the necessary education and show themselves prepared for self-government.

When their automobile left the roadway and landed in the Orr ditch on the north edge of Reno Tuesday night, Fred Shair, former mayor of Reno, and party had a narrow escape from serious injury. In the party in addition to Shair, were Mrs. Shair, the three Shair children and Mrs. J. Buel, who is Mrs. Shair's mother. Mrs. Buel was scratched about the head and face. All received a thorough drenching.

FOURTH CENTURY SILVER PLATE

EDINBURGH, June 16.—A hoard of battered silver plate dating back to the fourth century has been found on the estate near here of the British foreign minister, A. J. Balfour. It is described as one of the most remarkable archeological discoveries ever made in northern Europe. Mr. Balfour had agreed with the excavators that all finds should become the property of the nation, and the silver vessels have been transferred to the Queen street museum in this city. The silver is said to be exceptionally pure.

The site of the discovery is known as Traprain Law. It was once a fortified area, which covers sixty acres and gives evidence of occupation at intervals during the first four centuries of the Christian era. It is believed to have been at one time the site of the Celtic settlement under Roman rule. Its latest inhabitants are thought to have been Saxon pirates.

Excavators for the Queen street museum struck a small pit which was filled to the brim with battered silver vessels and a few coins of the emperors Valens and Gratian. The vessels were crushed and disfigured indicating that they were regarded as booty and intended for the melting pot. They include flagons, chalices, platters, bowls and spoons. On them can be deciphered Christian symbols, such as Chi Rho, Alpha, Omega and leaves Christy. Scenes portrayed in relief are mainly from Bible history.

The gem of the collection is a richly decorated flask, beautifully embossed and bearing the inscription, "Prymaceisapl," which has not yet been translated. Archeologists have not been able to say whether the vessels were spoils taken from one single church or from a number of different places. Some of the silver is gilded, some enameled and some inlaid with gold.

4000 LOGS IN KAISER'S SCORE

(Correspondence Associated Press)

AMERONGEN, June 15.—The former German emperor displayed marked irritation after reading the clause of the peace treaty in which the allies announced their intention of putting him on trial on charges of violation of international morality and of the sanctity of treaties. For several hours after he had read the clause no one at the castle of Amerongen had the courage to approach him. He sat in a chair before the main entrance to the castle, entirely alone and apparently in deep thought while the former empress, Auguste Victoria, and the members of his suite walked in the grounds, occasionally glancing in his direction.

Next day he seemed to be in a state of nervous agitation, for he frequently ceased his sitting and walked away leaving those who assist him to continue the work alone. Later, however, he resumed with increased energy, so much so that one of his assistants was forced to take to his bed for some days in order to recover from a chill caught while perspiring at the other end of the saw.

Subsequently the dull life of the castle resumed its ordinary dullness and since the first display of annoyance Count Hohenzollern has shown few signs of being much affected by the conditions of the peace treaty.

The former emperor has said a big 4000th log and it is asserted by some of his retainers that he intends to bring the number up to 10,000. The logs which now form a large heap are placed in piles in dry preparation for use as fuel in the castle next winter.

It is estimated that there are in the United States some million people who can neither read nor write the English language. The Democrats are counting on them strong in 1920.
